

Europeans and Tunisians belonged to the same bodies less often than chance

Co-membership ties among the 268 people whose community the entry settles and who share a body with another such person: 806 ties. Cross-community ties run a fifth below the random benchmark, and Tunisian-Tunisian ties at nearly twice it. Assortativity $r = 0.20$ — mild segregation, not separation.

