

Medicine publishes four times as often as the administration

Share of each sector's notices whose OEUVRES rubric names a publication. 154 of 1,346 notices name one. Medicine leads at 24%, while civil administration — the largest sector in the volume and the one nearest the Protectorate's own authority — reaches 6%, and commerce less still. Sectors with fewer than 25 notices are omitted, since one author would move them several points.
