

The named owners of the land are mostly not the people in the book

131 property ties: 127 named owners across 54 localities, in 50 clusters that never join up — 26 of them a single owner with a single estate. Only 26 of the 127 owners have a biographical notice: the volume records rural property without recording the proprietors as persons.

