

Honours accumulate with time served

Share of each birth cohort carrying at least one decoration, with the mean number of decorations printed inside each bar. Among the 1,103 people whose birth year the volume prints, the 1850s cohort is decorated at 86% and the 1880s at 46%. Nothing here says the older men were more deserving: by 1912 they had simply been eligible for thirty more years.
